THOMAS NATHANIEL IVAN - Coach.

Born: Toronto, Ontario, January 31, 1911.

Dapper Tommy Ivan is now starting his seventh season as a National League coach, and his ninth season in the professional coaching ranks. In that period of time, all of which has been in the Detroit hockey organization, Ivan has proven himself the peer of the best of all hockey coaches.

The achievement records of the teams, coached by Ivan, together with the individual successes of the players comprising those teams bear record testimony to Little Tee's ability.

Ivan is a rarity in the professional sports picture, a man who has become a top flight coach without ever having played a single game of professional hockey. Yet, so keen an analyst, so close a student of the game is he, that his background as amateur player, junior coach, referee, and scout, has more than fitted him to match tactics with the great players of yesterday who are now numbered among the league's mentors.

Tommy, who started his amateur hockey playing with Toronto, and continued it in Brantford, retired from puck chasing following a severe facial injury. However, his appetite for the game was unsatiated, and he turned to refereeing, and followed this with the coaching of a junior team in Brantford.

It was here, and in this capacity, that he first attracted the attention of the Detroit organization, who took over sponsorship of the team, and widened Ivan's scope from that of coach to a scout as well. When the Detroiters moved their sponsorship to Guelph, Tommy moved with them.

A hiatus in his hockey career was created by World War Two, in which he served as a gunnery instructor in the Canadian Army. Following a discharge with honor he returned to hockey and began his ascendency of the professional ladder by taking the reins of the Omaha Knights in the United States League. One season there brought promotion to Indianapolis, and after a single year at the tiller of the Capitals he moved upward again, this time to Detroit, when Jack Adams assumed the general managership of the Red Wings.

The previously - mentioned record speaks for itself. However Ivan's worth is best illustrated by realization that in his five championship teams he has dealt with ever - changing personnel. Only four players have been members of all of the title - winning clubs.

An avid sportsman, Tommy watches all team sports enthusiastically, and numbers among his many friends, a host of members of other sports. Too, he has absorbed from scrutiny of these other sports some valuable lessons. His defense when the Wings are shorthanded was created by watching a shifting basketball defense.

Participant - wise golf is Tommy's sport. A skilled golfer, he owns the Ava Golf Club, a semi - public course at Brantford, and in previous summers spent much of his time on his own links. The past summer, however, he devoted the bulk of his time to personal appearance presentations throughout Michigan on behalf of hockey and the Red Wings.

Ivan is a quiet, yet gregarious bachelor. He is an avid reader, and is a steady theatre goer, with a preference for musical comedies and operettas.

ALGER ARBOUR - Defense.

Born: Sudbury, Ontario, November 1, 1932. Height 6', Weight 180 lbs.

Youngest of the Red Wings is defense man Al Arbour, whose hockey rise has been literally meteoric, and whose future is great.

Arbour is a graduate of the Detroit junior system, having spent the last two seasons with the Windsor Spitfires, learning the trade of a defense man under Jimmy Skinner.

Al originally reported to the junior camp in the fall of 1951 as a right wing. Failing to win a regular place with the Spitfires he was placed with Hettche of the International League. Possessed of a strong shot he won promotion to the junior "A" sextet in the middle of the year, where the work of converting him to a rear guard began.

Last year he blossomed into a star defense man, despite the handicap of bad vision. When Windsor completed their season early in February Al was sent to the Washington Lions of the Eastern League, then late in March was signed to a professional contract and sent to the Edmonton Flyers, when the Wings' Western League farm was injury riddled.

Inside of three games he had displayed so much poise and soundness of play that he was rated as a pro defense man. He spearheaded the rear guard crew as the Flyers captured the Western League playoff title, and his promotion this fall was inevitable

During the summer he experimented with contact lenses for use during play as a vision corrective, and this fall, in his first playing test, was a standout, even with the handicap of unfamiliarity.

Arbour actually joined the Red Wings for one game last season, dressing as a spare player. However he did not get into the action.

Born: Montreal, Quebec, September 7, 1931. Height 5'8½". Weight 175 lbs.

One of the most colorful rookies to break into the National League in some seasons was sturdy Marcel Bonin, who joined the Red Wings in Montreal, December 27, 1952.

A smiling French - Canadian youngster who spoke little English, Bonin had broken into the professional ranks earlier in the season with the St. Louis Flyers of the American League. He had been secured from Providence in a trade.

Bonin first attracted the attention of Red Wing executives in 1950, when he distinguished himself against Detroit in an exhibition game with the Quebec Aces. As a linemate for the famed Jean Marc Bellieveau, Bonin did yoeman service as a defensive forward, as well as displaying courage and little awe in facing the National League champions.

Thus he was marked in the future book of the Detroit organization, and when the opportunity to secure him arose two years later Jack Adams lost little time in consummating the transaction.

Bonin thus left the Quebec Aces and went to St. Louis where his hard work won him praise, and within three months, promotion.

On first arriving in Detroit he was used sparingly, until he became accustomed to National League ways. However when Marty Pavelich was forced out of action with an elbow injury Bonin took up a regular patrol on the left flank, and did it well. Deceptively small but strong he surprised the best right wings in the league who attempted to sweep around him, and he enjoyed considerable skill in checking the vaunted Maurice Richard.

In addition he learned to use his shot to greater advantage, and applied himself with equal diligence to bettering his hockey skill and his English linguistic knowledge.

He won the hearts of his teammates by his colorful phrasing of the language, and by his stories of his experiences as a physical culturist. Bonin had long been a weight lifter of note, is beautifully developed physically, and had once wrestled a bear at a carnival. In addition he had mastered the medicine show feat of eating glass.

Unmarried, he makes his home in Quebec during the summer, being employed in a local pulp mill.

His combination of skill and color brought him the Detroit Sports Broadcasters' award as the outstanding rookie Red Wing last year.

ALEXANDER PETER DELVECCHIO - Center.

Born: Fort William, Ontario, December 4, 1931. Height 6'. Weight 185 lbs.

When Alex Delvecchio was named center on the second All Star Team at the close of the past season's play it marked the first step on the upward ladder of recognitio for the husky youngster after but two seasons of professional hockey play.

Delvecchio, a typical product of the Detroit farm system, is rated as one of the most promising pivot players in the game today.

He was first scouted and developed by Louis Passador in his native Fort William, where he established an enviable junior record with the Hurricanes. Between 1949 and 1950 he matured with great speed, both physically and as a player, and as a result he was sent to Larry Aurie and the Detroit - sponsored Oshawa Generals in 1950. Here he quickly became one of Canada's top junior players. Topped only by his linemate Louis Jankowski, he scored over 120 points and was the second highest point getter in all organized hockey.

The Italian youngster turned professional in the fall of 1951, giving up his last season of junior competition, and was assigned to Indianapolis. Within two weeks his stick handling and shiftiness had asserted themselves and he was promoted to the Red Wings, where he has now spent two seasons with increasing brilliance.

Nicknamed "Ish" and "Fats" by his teammates, he is a serious hard working youngster on the ice, fun loving, easy going individual away from hockey.

Married with one child, Alex makes his permanent home in his native city.

WILLIAM DINEEN - Center.

Born Arvida, Quebec, September 18, 1932. Height 5'11", Weight 180 lbs.

Newest of the Red Wings is dark - haired Irish Bill Dineen, who has accomplished hockey's biggest jump, from junior amateur ranks directly to the National Hockey League.

Dineen, who completed three years of junior play with Toronto St. Michael's last season is the first player to make such a rapid rise in the Detroit organization in seven years. In record only two present members of the current Red Wing squad, Ted Lindsay and Len Kelly, also moved ahead as swiftly, and they, like Dineen, also came from St. Michael's.

The youngster will see service at both right wing and center. Most of his amateur career was spent playing right wing, but he is so adept and mobile that within two days of fall training he learned the duties of a center - man quite efficiently.

Like his father, whom is a civil engineer, Dineen is a studious, scientific type. Under the terms of his contract with the Red Wings he is assured of summer tuition until he receives his degree in civil engineering.

Unmarried, he makes his permanent home with his parents in Ottawa. During the summer months he has worked as a surveyor, gaining practical experience to supplement his studies.

No previous professional record.

ROBERT JOHN GOLDHAM - Defense.

Born: Georgetown, Ontario, May 12, 1922. Height 6'1". Weight 195 lbs.

Oldest of the present Detroit squad in both age and years of National League service is defense man Bob Goldham. Too, Goldham is the only member of the club who has played with two other National League teams.

Now starting his fourth season in a Red Wing uniform, Goldham has become a player of great popularity and value. A fearless blocker he has no equal among the National League rear guards in dropping to stop enemy thrusts before they reach the goalie, and in many games he has been known to deflect almost as many shots as Terry Sawchuk. This intrepid style, based on split second timing, has won him the admiration of the Detroit fans, who regard him as the most underrated back line performer in the league.

The only member of the squad to date his professional career back beyond World War Two, when at the age of 19 he left the Toronto Marlboro juniors to begin his career in the salaried ranks in the American League. In his first season he played for both Hershey and Washington before being promoted to the parent Toronto Maple Leafs late in the year.

Bob entered the Canadian Navy at the end of the season, doing a three year hitch. Upon his discharge he returned to the Maple Leaf lineup for two seasons. A fractured arm took him out of action in November, 1946, his second season, for the remainder of the campaign. The next year he began the season with Pittsburgh, being traded to Chicago within the first month.

Again, after a strong start, a broken bone in the wrist sent him to the sidelines. He recovered the following fall to put in two years spearheading the Black Hawks' defense before being traded with three other players to Detroit before the start of the 1950 season.

His three years in Detroit are history. With the Red Wings he has risen to his greatest heights, winning respect throughout the league for his hard, clean, courageous play. A light scorer, he still is a good rusher and a strong puck carrier, and his offensive forays usually come at important times.

Married and with two daughters, Goldham makes Toronto his permanent residence. He is employed as a salesman for the Caterpillar Tractor Company in the off season.

JAMES ALEXANDER HAY - Defense.

Born: Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, May 15, 1931. Height 5'11½". Weight 175 lbs.

Sheer perseverance has offorded defense man Jim (Red Eye) Hay the opportunity of starting his first full season on defense for the Red Wings. It is the same perseverance which originally won him a trial with the Detroit organization.

Hay appeared at a junior camp being conducted in Saskatoon in 1948, unheralded, and requested a tryout. Although he had not been scouted he was a husky willing unattached youngster, and Tommy Ivan quickly issued him equipment and installed him at right wing.

So apt was Hay that when a group of juniors were selected to transfer to Windsor to the Wings' junior "A" team, he was among them. At Windsor he saw little service, playing most of hockey for the Auto Club team of the International League.

However in his second season under Coach Jimmy Skinner he was shifted to a defense post and became a star rushing rear guard. As a result he was signed to a professional contract in 1950, while still elegible for junior play, and sent to Omaha

With the Knights he came into his own. He was a prime factor in their dash to the league and playoff titles, and his 24 goals set a record for goals by a United States League defense player.

The following fall he was moved to Indianapolis to sharpen his defensive play under the eye of Ott Heller. Last year he started the season with Bud Poile's Edmonton Flyers, but was called to the Red Wings for the first time to make his National League debut on December 13th.

Over the remainder of the season he saw limited duty, as Tommy Ivan let him observe big league techniques. He did fit into Wings' power play well because of his driving shot from the right flank.

Hay had one goal and four assists, all on power play efforts. The goal was a key one, scored in the Forum in a turning point game which sent the Wings toward their fifth straight National League title.

This season he is slated for more extensive service. Unmarried, he makes Saskatoon his home, spending his summers on the golf links where he is proficient.

His nickname, which he has carried from childhood, resulted from the appearance of his eyes after an attack of "pink eye."

GORDON HOWE - Right Wing.

Born: Floral, Saskatchewan, March 31, 1928. Height 6'. Weight 195 lbs.

That Gordie Howe is bidding fair to become the greatest Red Wing of all time, as well to establish a claim to immortality among all hockey players is actually a matter of record. The husky, perfectly - coordinated youngster from Western Canada, now beginning his eighth season with the Detroit club, is but 25 years old, and still appears to be approaching his peak season.

Howe appears destined to re - write the team scoring records, and may do as well for the league marks. When he led the National League in both total goals and total points last year, for the third consecutive season, he set a new point total of 95, and eclipsed his own mark of 86, set three seasons back and equalled the following year.

In all, in seven years of big timeplay, Howe has amassed 209 goals, 229 assists. His 438 point total places him third among the All Time Detroit scorers. That he will surpass Sid Abel's 468 total during the coming season appears certain. Now his goal mark is second to that of his linemate, Ted Lindsay, who has 218, and should Howe outscore Lindsay by 10 goals he will put proof on paper that he is the greatest goal getter to ever grace a Wing uniform.

Gordie has matured early as a hockey player, and is the only player in hockey today who jumped directly from juvenile competition to the professional ranks. He spent one year in Galt in 1944, but because of disapproval of his transfer, did not compete. Even with the handicap of year's idleness, however, he leaped into the salaried ranks at age 17 with Omaha, and the following season was with the Detroit sextet to stay.

His first three years with Detroit were uneventful. His scoring records belied his ability. Hampered by youth and injuries, he missed 22 games in that time. However starting with the 1949-50 competition he moved to the fore, scoring 35 or more goals a season each of the last four years. In all he has played every game of the past four seasons, despite a serious injury which took him out of action in the first game of the 1950 playoffs.

That might actually have proved to be the turning point in Howe's career. The following fall, fully recovered after most delicate and skilled brain surgery, he began his pace which was to see him write history.

Personal achievements include being the first man to lead the league in scoring for three straight years, the first man to score over 40 goals for three consecutive seasons, the first player in Detroit history to win the Dr. David Hart Trophy two successive seasons. Club wise he has topped the Red Wings in goal scoring the past four years, while pacing the team in points for three seasons. He has twice been selected as the team's most valuable player.

Gordie has won All Star mention for five straight seasons. Placed on the first team the past three years, he won the second team right wing berth the preceding two years.

Quiet, somewhat bashful, Howe has never seemed to realize his physical greatness. He is a perfectly co-ordinated athletic machine, as demonstrated by his golf and baseball ability. Yet underneath the physical perfection lies a warm, humourous, colorful personality.

He was married in April, 1953, makes his home in Saskatoon in the off-season.

LEONARD PATRICK KELLY - Defense.

Born: Simcoe, Ontario, July 9, 1927. Height 5'11½". Weight 180 lbs.

Coach Tommy Ivan has often hailed his red headed defense man, Len Kelly, as the handiest all around player in the National League, and a rapid glance at the record books would seem to bear out this appraisal.

For in six seasons of big time competition Kelly has proven not only a defense man of prime skill, but a brilliant two way player who has already won a host of individual honors.

Kelly, a tobacco farmer from Simcoe, jumped directly from the Toronto St. Michael's juniors to the Red Wings in the fall of 1947. As a collegian he had established a brilliant record as both a forward and a rear guard, and Detroit officials gave him a thorough trial at both posts, before finally assigning him to a defense position.

During his six seasons, while Kelly has won renown as a blue liner he has taken regular turns at left wing and center, and currently has won the recognition Ivan affords him by his skill both ways.

In his six season as a major leaguer Kelly has amassed a host of honors. He has won All Star recognition four times, being chosen on the first team for the past three seasons, while being named to the second sextet the preceding year.

He has topped the league's defense men in point scoring for four consecutive seasons, and came within a single goal of equalling the league mark for goals by a rear guard during the past campaign. In all Kelly ranks eleventh among the all time Red Wing scorers with 104 goals and 131 assists, and stands just 40 points from supplanting Joe Carveth in Detroit's top ten.

Kelly has won the Lady Byng Trophy twice in the past three seasons, was runner - up the third time. In all he has received but 43 penalty minutes in 294 games, and is rated as perhaps the greatest sportsman of modern times.

His stickhandling skill, his ability to control his temper, and his sound blocking have made a paragon among rear guards. Too, he is noted for his educated skates, being able to propel the puck by skate far more skillfully than many players can by stick.

Off the ice he is the same seemingly easy - going but actually intense young man. Noted for his abstinance from tobacco and profanity, he is a gregarious person, enjoying society and activity.

A bachelor, Kelly makes his home on his parents farm during the summer, playing baseball and cultivating tobacco as conditioners. He has learned the matter of self conditioning so thoroughly that Coach Ivan often lets him choose the length of his on the ice periods.

Len is also an excellent dancer and enjoys terpsichorean divertisement.

ANTHONY JOSEPH LESWICK - Right Wing.

Born: Humboldt, Saskatchewan, March 17, 1923. Height 5'6½". Weight 160 lbs.

Small in stature but big in heart and aggressive hockey, Tony Leswick is perhaps as popular as any player on the Red Wings. For the "MightyMouse", as he has been nicknamed by the players, is a hard going wingman who in two seasons has proven to be a valuable cog in the Detroit machine.

Leswick is one of the few players on the squad who is not a native product of the Detroit organization. He began has professional hockey with Cleveland in 1942, winning his way to the National League in one year. He was purchased by the New York Rangers after his freshman season with the Barons, only to see a two year stint in the Canadian armed forces interrupt his hockey career.

When he returned to the hockey ward after participation in the larger conflict he spent six years with the Broadway Blues, twice topping the 20 - goal mark, and netting the puck 113 time.

However it was his all around, two ability, and his tremendous courage that attracted the Wing management to him, and when possible they obtained him in the summer of 1951 in trade for Gaye Stewart.

Two seasons with the Wings have followed. Assigned to the right flank on the defensive patrol, and to a penalty killing role, Leswick has filled both positions skillfully.

His aggressive play, which has made him one of hockey's most penalized players, has also earned him more than his share of stitches, and he has twice won the "Dow Award", a semi - serious trophy given by his teammates for being the most stitched player on the team.

Tony is equally at home on either wing, which makes him a most valued member in the Detroit system, which makes use of players with varied abilities.

Married and with two sons, the humorous, low voiced Leswick now makes his permanent home in New Westminister, B. C.

Born: Renfrew, Ontario, July 29, 1925. Height 5'8". Weight 165 lbs.

Aggressive little Ted Lindsay, All Star left wing and Captain, will enter his tenth season as a National Leaguer, the oldest player in point of service in the Detroit Red Wing lineup.

Lindsay, who jumped directly from junior hockey to the Detroit club, has become one of the most illustrious players ever to wear a Red Wing jersey.

In his nine seasons of major league play, all with Detroit, he has become the highest goal scorer in the club's history, having netted the puck 218 times as a Red Wing. He has coupled this goal total with 246 assists for a lifetime record of 464 points, only four points shy of the all - time high total of 468 points, amassed by Sid Abel. Thus before the new season is too far underway Lindsay should set a new Detroit record.

A fiery player, he also holds the club's all time penalty record, having received 793 minutes in National League competition.

The spirited play which has made Lindsay a marked man has characterized his entire hockey growth. As a youth in Kirkland Lake, Ontario, he attracted the attention of Toronto scouts, but was rejected because of size. He went to Toronto on his own, seeking a tryout with the vaunted Toronto St. Michael's junior club. Here he was handicapped by injuries, but shown sufficient potential to warrant being signed by Detroit.

Following graduation by age from the junior ranks he reported to the Wings for a tryout in 1944. He won a spot in the Motor City lineup, has never been dislodged. Originally he gained recognition as a defensive forward, however soon began to realize his offensive potential as well, and for the past four seasons he has topped all left wings in scoring.

Lindsay won the Art Ross trophy as the league's leading scorer in 1949 - 50 play, the first time a Detroiter has ever led the point parade. The past three years only teammate Gordie Howe has topped him in the individual point - getting race.

In addition Lindsay has won All Star consideration six times. In five of the past six season, including the last four years in a row, he has been named to the first team. In the two preceding years he won first team honors once, second team honors once.

On the home front he has won the Harry A. Gormley trophy, emblematic of team scoring honors three times; the Frank J. Murphy Trophy, as the club's top goal scorer once, and the Detroit Hockey Writers' Award as the team's most valuable player once.

Off season Ted is a quiet, poised individual who bears no resemblance to the hard going, highly competitive Lindsay seen on the ice. He is married, makes his permanent home in Detroit. He divides his summers between selling for the Hettche Ford dealership and making personal appearances to assist Red Wing Promotion.

Born: Sault Sainte Marie, Ontario, November 6, 1927. Height 5'10½". Weight 170 lbs.

During the five years that the Detroit Red Wings have swept to five consecutive National League championships a continual changing of personnel has amazed most hockey followers. Only four players have been members of all five of the championship clubs. Of the five the least heralded has been black - haired, personable Marty Pavelich. However Marty has remained one of the key players together with Ted Lindsay, Gordie Howe, and Len Kelly.

Pavelich has been the top defensive forward of the club. At left wing he has faced the assignment of checking the best of the opposing right wings, and at the same time he has been the number one penalty killer for the Red Wings.

That he has performed both tasks capably is proven by his continuance as one of Detroit's principal championship factors. However his defensive skill has managed to bag his share of important goals. During the past season, as well, he was shifted to center, and proved a sound playmaker.

Marty has been in professional hockey since 1947, and is now entering his sixth season in the salaried ranks. In this time he has played a majority of each season with Detroit.

He was a product of the Detroit - sponsored Galt Juniors, foregoing his final season of junior elegibility in order to try his skill at Indianapolis. Two months with the Capitals won him promotion to the gib Red machine, and here he has remained, barring a two - week visit to the Capitals when the team was injury shortened.

Last year Marty bid for his most successful season, only to be foiled by a serious elbow injury. He crashed into the net post in the Chicago Stadium in late January, missed six games, operated at half efficiency over the remainder of the year, and underwent surgery during the summer.

Now back at full power he still is seeking achievement of his high ambition, a 20 - goal season. His previous high was 17, two years ago.

Unmarried, he is one of the most personable and socially sought of the Wings. He makes his off - season home in Sault Ste. Marie, where he serves as playing manager of a local softball team of considerable repute.

RENE MARCEL PRONOVOST - Defense.

Born: Lac a la Tortue, Quebec, June 15, 1930. Height 6'. Weight 175 lbs.

If Len Kelly is to face competition for top honors as the number one scoring defense man in the National League it will probably come from his teammate, hustling Marcel Pronovost. For Pronovost, in his second full season of big league play, ranked third among the circuit's rear guards and second to Kelly in goal scoring last season.

The tall French - Canadian youngster is typical of the Detroit organization. He was plucked from the juvenile ranks in Shawinigan Falls by Scout Marcel Cote, and brought to Windsor to try for the Spitfire Juniors. Here he became a standout, not only for his rushing but for his rugged style on the back line.

A student of that which he attempts, Pronovost applied himself equally to learning his hockey trade and learning English. A native of a French - speaking community he has now become sufficiently bi - lingual to rate as the club interpreter.

He turned professional at the age of 19, and was sent to Omaha where he made his presence felt in the United States League at once. Under Mud Bruneteau he developed into a brilliant all around player. Marcel received the "Rookie of the Year" award with the Knights, then went on to lead all players from all teams in point scoring in the playoffs.

Promoted to the Red Wings for the Stanley Cup series Pronovost participated in nine of the 14 games, saw his name placed on the Stanley Cup when Detroit defeated New York in the finals.

The following season he started in Detroit as a utility rear guard role. However he was soon sent to Indianapolis to work more regularly and to perfect his defensive style under Ott Heller. Returned to the Wings in mid - year he still had played so well in the American League that he won second All Star selection on a mere 34 games.

Following his return to the Wings he has remained as regular with increasing assignment, which he has filled with increasing skill.

Marcel is married, makes his off - season home in Shawinigan Falls where he works as an apprentice electrical engineer.

EARL REIBEL - Center.

Born: Kitchener, Ontario, July 21, 1930. Height 5'8". Weight 160 lbs.

Bidding for a National League uniform for the first time is stocky center Earl Reibel. A product of the Detroit organization, the brush cut youngster from Kitchener is now in his fourth season of professional.

Reibel, (whose name is pronounced Rye - bul), first came to the organization from the Kitchener Junior "B" team. He established himself as a top flighter with the Windsor Spitfires, turning professional in 1950 with the Omaha Knights. In his freshman year of professional hockey Reibel showed more promise than result, missing half the season because of a fractured leg.

However the following fall he won a place with Indianapolis by dint of sheer hustle at the training camp. Here he distinguished himself by winning the rookie award in the American League. He topped his team in point scoring and finished fifth in the league in total points, winning All Star nomination as a result.

Last year he put forth a spirited bid for a Red Wing uniform. However the after effects of a summer injury, suffered in an automobile accident retarded him and he was assigned to Edmonton.

With the Flyers he was a standout in the club's late drive to the playoffs, and to the playoff championship. He finished the season as the league's scoring leader.

On this basis the smiling, fun - loving youngster is now making his drive to earn a berth in the National League. His concentration on hockey belies his carefree attitude, and he must be rated as a strong prospect.

He has been nicknamed "Dutch". Unmarried, Reibel makes Kitchener his home. He is a better than average baseball player during the summer.

TERRENCE GORDON SAWCHUK - Goalkeeper.

Born: Winnipeg, Manitoba, December 28, 1929. Height 5'10". Weight 176 lbs.

Proof of the greatness of Terry Sawchuk as a goalkeeper is never better demonstrated than by a glance at the record books. For Sawchuk is unique in the annals of professional hockey. The stocky youngster of Ukranian lineage is the only player in the game's history who won the rookie award in every professional league in which he competed.

In addition Terry, in three years of National League competition, boasts an almost perfect record, having lacked only two goals of winning the Vezina Trophy every time he has competed therefore.

Sawchuk is a tribute to the courage and direction of the Detroit hockey organization. Terry was rated as a major leaguer and given the opportunity to prove himself outright when the Wings traded Lumley to Chicago on the heels of having won the Stanley Cup.

That in base they were not wrong is proven by a second look at the records.

Chronologically Sawchuk first came into the organization when he applied for a spot with a juvenile team in Winnipeg, sponsored by the Detroit club, and coached by Bob Kinnerar, Wing scout in Manitoba. He had chosen the position of goalkeeper by virtue of the inheritance of a set of pads from an older brother.

So rapidly did Terry rise that at age 16 he was playing Junior "A" hockey in Galt, and a year later, within a month of the opening of the season he had been plucked from the junior ranks and started on a professional career with Omaha in the United States League.

One season saw Terry win awards as both the leading goalkeeper and outstanding rookie in the U.S. circuit, and promotion to Indianapolis was automatic. Two years in a Capital uniform, plus a seven game National League debut when an injury sidelined Lumley, provided the opportunity mentioned earlier.

Events have since proven that the Detroit management was gambling on a sure thing, for Terry won the Calder Trophy, and the first All Star selection in his freshman year, when he finished a single goal away from a tie for the Vezina award; followed as an All Star repeater, and did capture Vezina honors in his second year; and repeated again in both departments in his third season.

Last year he was not as successful as in the 1951 - 2 campaign. However despite a physical handicap, created by a mild aenemia, Sawchuk still stood at the top.

Now after a summer of planned conditioning he has declared himself ready to seek new honors, if any more worlds remain for him to conquer.

In style Terry brought a new crouch to the game. Unbelievable fast reflexes, and excellent hands are his chief attributes. The latter stemmed from his early career in baseball, which divided his interest with hockey. As a teen - age infielder he attracted the attention of the St. Louis Cardinals. However his native game of hockey prevailed.

Terry left the bachelor ranks in August when he married Patricia Morey of Union Lake.

GLEN FREDERICK SKOV - Center.

Born: Wheatley Ontario, January 26, 1931. Height 6'1". Weight 185 lbs.

One of the younger players for whom the Red Wings see a brilliant future is husky Glen Skov, who has won his way into the National League through perseverance. Skov, who grew up across the river from Detroit in Windsor, battled his way into the Spitfire organization when he was a gangling youngster of 16, to become one of the top left wings in Junior hockey three years later.

He made his professional debut in a pair of games under the amateur lend - lease arrangement in 1949, while playing his last season of junior hockey. The following season, while still elegible for a final year as a junior he inked his first contract and was sent to Omaha.

With the Knights he enjoyed an illustrious beginning, scoring 26 goals and 33 assists in 45 games. As a result he was called up by the parent Red Wings in February for the stretch drive. He finished the season in Detroit and has not been out of the Wing lineup since.

Glen, of Danish extraction, made a name for himself in his first full season, winning the Detroit Sports Broadcasters' Award as the outstanding first year player among the Red Wings. He primarily distinguished himself as a checking forward, centering the Wings' number one defensive unit, and also showed considerable willingness to dig into the cornors for the puck.

A strong boy and still growing, Skov is the type of player on whom the Wings hope to build a team for some seasons to come.

He has acquired the nickname "Sam" from his teammates, although no one is quite certain where it began.

Glen is a bachelor, makes his permanent residence in Windsor with his parents. He is a skilled baseball player and is in demand among the top sandlot teams of the area. He does construction work during the off - season.

VICTOR JOHN STASIUK - Right Wing.

Born: Lethbridge, Alberta, May 23, 1929. Height 6'1". Weight 185 lbs.

If his dislocated hip is completely healed big Vic Stasiuk appears ready to come into his own as a National League hockey player. And if the husky right wing from Lethbridge does develop into the top flight right wing he has always promised to be it will mark a victory for the patience and perseverance of the Detroit management.

For Stasiuk, starting his sixth season of professional hockey, has always been a player who appeared marked for a brilliant future, but whose potential always appeared greater than his results under competitive fire.

Vic first attracted attention when he broke in with Kansas City in the United States League in 1948. Big, strong, a sound skater, and possessed of a hard shot, he caught the eye of Mud Bruneteau, then coach of the Wings' farm club at Omaha. Bruneteau's judgements were carried to the top level, and echoed by the Detroit management when Stasiuk was called up to the Black Hawks late in the 1949 - 50 campaign. Here, again he displayed his promise although hampered by a chronically troublesome appendix.

Thus when he was offered to Detroit by Chicago along with Bert Olmstead in a trade which sent Lee Fogolin and Steve Black to the Windy City sextet early in the 1950 - 51 season, the Wing mentors snapped him up. Stasiuk finished the season in a Detroit uniform, again displaying more form than goals.

As a result he was assigned to Indianapolis at the start of the next season. In the first eight games of the season he bagged seven goals, won a return to the Wings. He saw action in 58 games with Detroit but again failed to hit his stride.

Last fall he started the season as the eleventh forward, seeing action less than two minutes a game. As a result he was soon sent to Edmonton, and here the big fellow really blossomed out. In 48 games of a possible 70 he fired 37 goals, then dislocated his hip.

However he appeared to have finally arrived, and in his two - third season play he topped the Western League in goal scoring and finished third in the individual point chase.

Now apparently reported in top condition, he is to be given every opportunity to prove his big league potential.

The solidly - built Ukranian youngster is married, makes his summer home on a wheat farm outside of Lethbridge.

Born: Kincardine, Ontario, June 14, 1929. Height 5'10½". Weight 170 lbs.

One of the most promising left wings in the National League is stocky, blond Johnny Wilson, beginning his second full season with Detroit. Wilson began to fully realize his potential last season when he netted 23 goals in N. H. L. competition to tie for fifth place in goal scoring. Only teammate Ted Lindsay scored more often from the left flank than Wilson.

John is typical of the younger Detroit players. He was developed entirely through the Detroit hockey organization, and has grown, step by step, to his present stature.

With his younger brother Larry, a center, he was first scouted by Marcel Cote while playing juvenile hockey at Shawinigan Falls. A trip to the Detroit camp won him a place on the Windsor Spitfires, Detroit's number one junior "A" affiliate and in two seasons he proved to be a player with a future.

Manager Jack Adams evaluated Wilson as one of the best pass receiving young wingmen he had ever seen. In addition John was blessed with a heavy, accurate shot and a fine turn of speed which stamped as a youngster with a great potential as a scorer.

Wilson turned professional in 1949 and was assigned to the Omaha Knights. He spent the season in the United States League, scoring 41 goals and 39 assists. He made his debut as a National Leaguer in February, 1950 when he was called up by Detroit for a one night stand against Chicago.

So promising was John that he was called up again as a replacement during the playoffs after Omaha had completed their season. He appeared in eight playoff games in Red Wing livery, and when Detroit captured the Stanley Cup had the rare achievement of having his name inscribed thereon in his freshman season.

The next year John was sent to Indianapolis, again being recalled by Detroit at playoff time. He opened the 1950 - 51 campaign with the Red Wings, but was returned to Indianapolis after two weeks. Recalled again by the parent club in February he made short work of assuring himself a regular spot in the Detroit lineup where he has remained.

Normally teamed with his brother Larry, John has proven his right to play in the major league on his own.

A quiet, reticent bachelor, he makes his home with his parents in Windsor. He plays baseball in the off - season and works for the Hiram Walker Company.

BENEDICT FRANCIS WOIT - Defense.

Born: Fort William, Ontario, January 7, 1928. Height 5'11". Weight 192 lbs.

Among the more valued, but less heralded members of the big Red machine is husky, blond rear guard Benny Woit. Woit, now in his third season as a regular Red Wing appears headed for increasing responsibility.

A six year veteran of professional hockey, Ben had demonstrated an improvement with work and experience which dictates more ice time. And if he continues to follow his established pattern, the more he plays the better he will become.

Big Ben came to the Red Wings with an unusual heritage as a junior hockey player, having been a member of two Memorial Cup teams in successive seasons. More remarkable, however, was the fact that he had played on consecutive Eastern and Western winners. First as a forward for Toronto St. Michael's, then converted to defense for the Port Arthur Bruins, Woit was a key player on a championship sextet.

Three years at Indianapolis marked Benny's beginning in the salaried ranks. Here, with Ott Heller as his mentor, he learned the trade of the rear guard fully. Annually he was a standby for the Detroit defense men at playoff time.

However it was not until 1951 that he broke into the Red Wing lineup on a regular basis, and here he has remained ever since.

Woit has shown ability to rise for big games, and in two years of playoff competition has marked himself as a great man under fire.

Married, and with a daughter less than a year old, Woit makes Fort William his permanent home.
